busy places.
 secret places.
 places one goes
 to live his life,
 dream his dreams
 and reach his goals.
 good times
 should be made to last.
 today they're images—
 sharp and clear,
 idelibly imprinted
 on the mind
 tomorrow they'll dim
 as a result of haste.
 haste is that notorious enemy of memories
 which turns awareness into forgetfulness and momentous experiences are over almost before they've begun.
 unless they achieve immortality
 between the covers of a book . . .
 vividly.
 realistically.
 almost magically.
 some say yearbooks
 can make time stand still.
 they can.

SAINT ANNE'S

Student adjusts to North and American customs

North High was fortunate to be a part of a cultural exchange through the American Field Service. The David K. Poole family became hosts of Mina Zarbali, the amiable exchange student from Larissa, Greece. Mina's senior "sister", Diane, and Frosh "brother," Bruce, gave valuable help as she sought to acclimate herself to many new surroundings and friends.

Playing piano is Mina's favorite pastime.

Mina grins at experiences as she writes in her diary.

D. Poole and M. Zarbali discuss where to go.

Mina spends time in her favorite room, the kitchen.

Greek culture offers nucleus for activities

AFS club students have sought to understand people beyond our own borders and bridge the miles between countries. North High Hubs hosted Mina Zarbali, a student from Greece, as Hub Kristen Walser studied in Middlesex, England. AFS members hoping to continue the exchange program, worked on fund raisers such as bake sales and selling charms.

Realizing that Christ is "the Way, the Truth, and the Life," members of the Bible Club directed their lives toward this goal. Delving into scriptures, they found answers to their problems and strength to live each day. Guided by an interested and dedicated advisor, Mr. Leasure, club participants tried to use knowledge gained by applying it to their lives today.

Hub band provides innovated entertainment

Pep band provides sensational sounds to synchronize student spirit at rallies.

Augmenting fourth period classes, summer band sessions began early to prepare for the first football show. Under field director Mike Albert, the great Hub marching band got standing ovations at nearly all of the games.

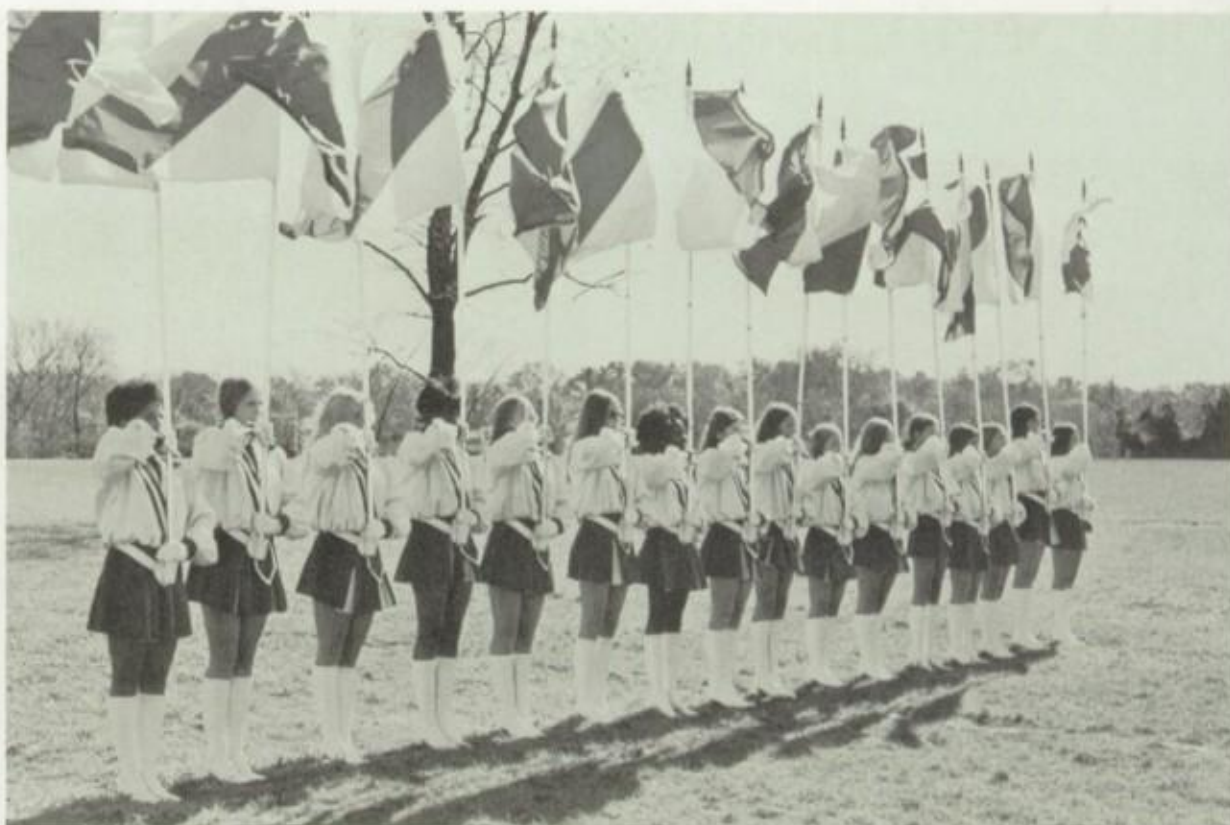

With president Tom Young handling any problems and Mr. Atherton directing, the concert season ended a successful year for the band.

Hub band says "Charge!" with a smile.

Bold display of color-new face to squad

Adding color and sophistication to the Hub band, the Flag squad marched on the field and in parades. The girls in red and white showed improvement under the guidance of Sherry Keyes, performing intricate formations during half-time. Although the squad did well throughout the marching season, most compliments were received for their "Black Magic Woman" routine.

The majorettes, clad in new basic red uniforms, added sparkle to the marching Hubs. Working under co-captains Marcie Mongan and Tammy Baker, the baton twirlers performed new routines at half-time shows and Pep rallies. Starting work in the summer, the girls perfected their numbers throughout the football season and danced to the music of the band.

Flag squad marks premier year with band

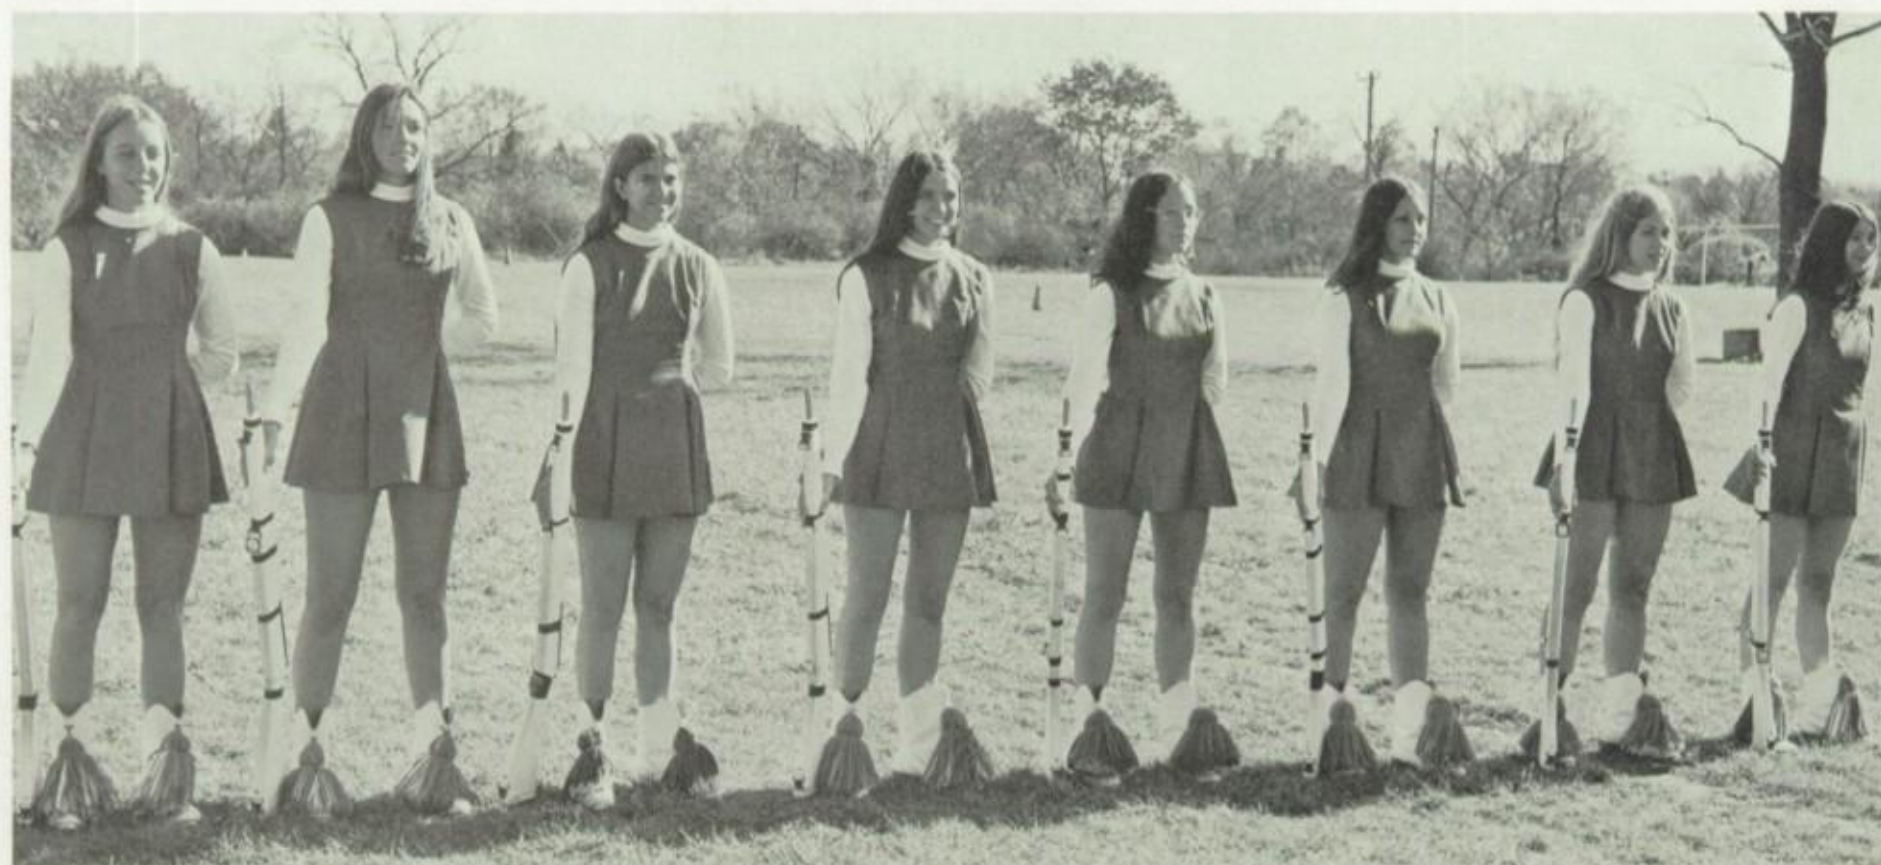

North High's colorguard added six rifles this year and became a full-fledged rifle squad. Although relatively inexperienced, the "gunswomen" learned quickly under the directions of captain Bonnie Hafer. Showing off new uniforms, the girls stepped off routines during half-time shows while tossing their guns to each other in crisp military style.

The newly formed Rifle Squad added another point of attraction to the band.

Members try for end result — checkmate

Despite the miniscule size of the chess club, the purpose was giant. By putting mind over matter the members released their inner hostilities on the chess board. The game of chess requires intense mental concentration as well as the ability to plan an effective strategy against one's opponent. The chess club provided a think tank atmosphere which members thrived on.

Canadian exchange trips prove successful

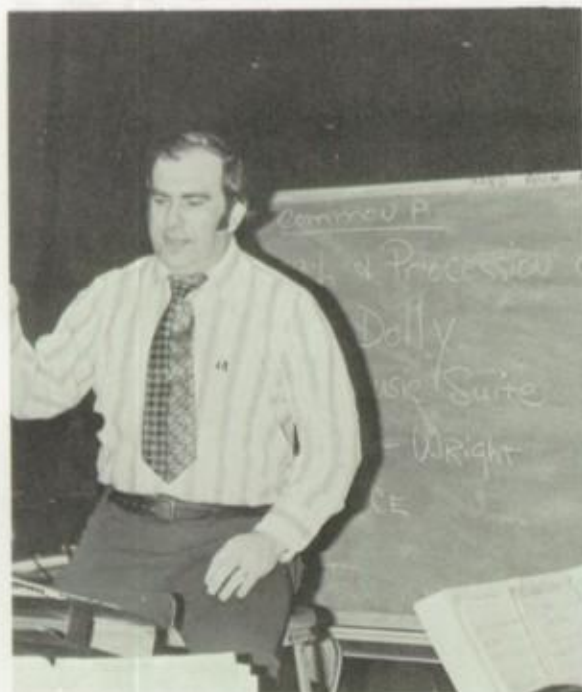

The Hub orchestra worked hard, earning respect from the community. Following the March visit of a Toronto group, North's orchestra and chorus journeyed to Canada. Candy sales and a spaghetti dinner were profitable fund raisers. Orchestra musicians favorable represented North in All-State Orchestra. They provided students with superb concerts as well.

Cheerleaders launch spirit — despite apathy

North's spirit squad continued reinforcing Hub pep and determination at pep assemblies and sports events. The cheerleaders put in many after school hours; polishing up old routines, painting signs, selling buttons, spreading red and white through the school. Editress Dian Breichner guided the 1974 Heiskelite to its long awaited completion.

Staff publishes annual edition of yearbook

Dedication, perseverance, and organization were the key ingredients for this year's Heiskelite. While the yearbook staff spent many after-school hours writing captions, alphabetizing, and typing, Editor Dian Breichner and the Copy, Layout, Picture, and Sports Editors worked behind the closed doors of the Heiskelite office planning and preparing each page. The patience of the publishing representative, Larry Allen, and the Myerlys combined with mad scrambles to meet deadlines completed Heiskelite '74 on schedule.

Junior Assistant, Dawn Barnhart insured next year's success by gaining experience.

Beth Roulette served as Business Manager.

Carolyn Manspeaker, Gail Adelsberger schedule Senior pictures and pushed sales.

Diane Sheeler, Twana Howard laid down format designs for pages.

Patrons plus representatives equal yearbook

Although seldom receiving credit for their work, the business staff of the Heiskelite performed a necessary function for the completion of this edition. Working under sales managers Carolyn Manspeaker and Gail Adlesberger, the members sold yearbooks, in all homerooms, sold personal and business patrons, and sold Homecoming Mums to raise money. Business Manager Beth Roulette handled the money and bank aspects, while the entire staff worked to accumulate the financing to produce the yearbook.

Colonel Pickering ponders the logic of Doolittle's argument with Henry Higgins.

The sophistication and humor of George Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion" were brought to North by the Seniors this year. Director Ingrid Lachotta and the cast suffered through many long hours of practice to successfully bring turn-of-the-century London to life. Presented with live orchestral accompaniment, the story of a Cockney flower girl (Kim Poffenborger) transformed into a lady by a professor of phonetics (Don Unger) was an enjoyable return to the traditional full-length class play.

B.S.O. bridges racial gap and examines life

The aim of the Black Student Organization, a novice club this year, was to bring about a more balanced understanding between all students at North, putting aside their racial background. Field trips were planned and carried out in the effort, involving not only black students. The club was a success through the leadership of junior Jeff Sellers.

Yellow Brick Road Leads To Emerald City

By the spring of 74 the imaginary figures in the Wizard of Oz were a reality in the minds of committee members. Prom night came, last second changes, the Prom was finished. The result which took so long to conceive only lasted what seemed to be seconds. The Prom was over, the unreal would become the real. Dorothy and Toto slowly slipped out of reach as the scenery was taken down. A sadness came, over the gym as the last few bits of paper fell, but still Oz lived onward.

A few steps over a bridge, a slow stroll past a flower-strewn pond, and suddenly couples were spending one warm May evening in Hawaii. Inhabitants offered leis to guests as they stepped into an island paradise under a star-studded sky. King Kamao-mao greeted everyone, and watched dancers enjoy the music of "Joshua." Misty eyes are just a part of Homecoming

Queen Margaret Harrison.

Spirits ran high on September 28 as the North High Hubs prepared for Homecoming 1973. Eighteen girls, seeking the title of Homecoming Queen, were escorted across town in the traditional car caravan. After what seemed like an endless first half, the special half-time festivities began. Emotions climaxed as Queen Margaret Harrison was named. Last year's royal couple, Barbara Dayhoff and Bill Curtis were on hand while Mr. Lemmert presented the crown to this year's queen. As the Student Council gave roses, an exciting second half ended this year's Homecoming game.

Colorful Homecoming galas highlight fall term

Following the football game, the queen and her court were escorted by car caravan across town to the Homecoming Dance in North's gym. There Margaret Harrison and Jeff Forcino reigned as the royal couple. Representatives of various clubs and organizations of North High presented the queen with gifts and gave their congratulations. As the romantic music was played by "Grandfather Clock," many couples congratulated the king and queen. Too quickly the evening drew to a close.

Norths' tennis teams serve up victories

Women's Lib infiltrated the tennis courts at North this year bringing with them a 0-4 season, led by Margaret Harrison, sophomore Kris Schoeck, coached by Leon Brumback. Remaining undefeated for the second straight year, junior Frank Lusby aided the boy's team. Losing only to Jefferson County, 6-3, North concluded with a slate of 11-1. In both games North shut out Scotland. Key players included David Summerlin, Bill Abdullah, Tom Dalton, and Pat Coleman.

Softball team wins county championship

Miss Diane Christian's softball team ended this season with a 10-0 slate. Coming from behind to win against South in the second game, Becky Robinson hit a two-run homer after several extra innings. Also coming from behind to win against Williamsport, North delivered a 15-14 win to boost their season's winnings. Jenni Horst headed the Hub defense with great pitching, hurling one no-hitter. Also leading the defensive squad were Kim Rideout, Jo Ellen McLucas, Diane Stahl, Rhonda Hawkins, and Donna Wagner.

North's varsity diamond men display great vigor

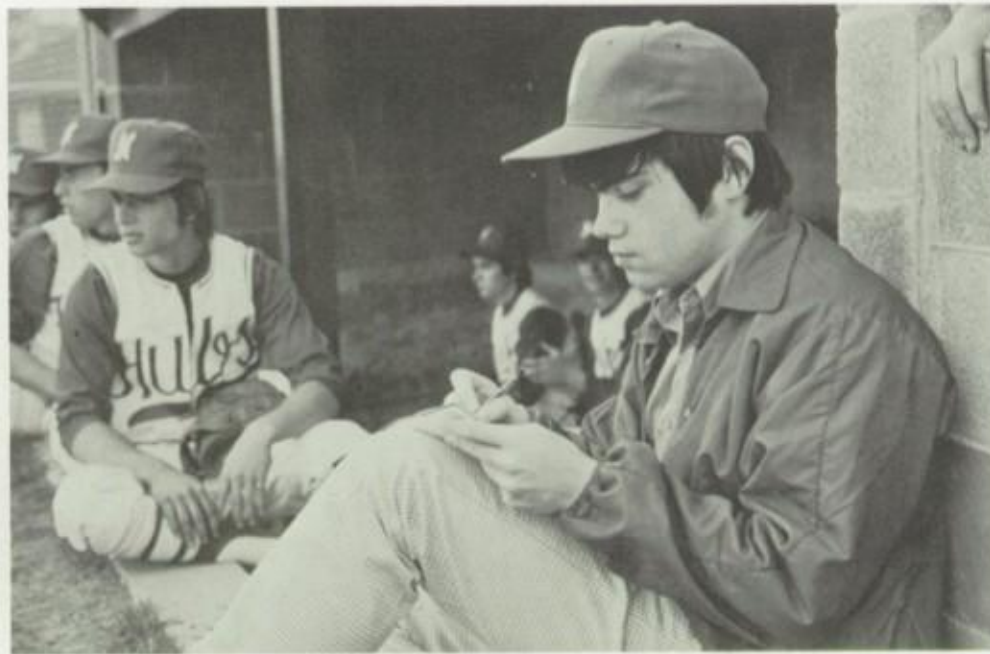

Coach Bob Johnson's diamond men displayed a great vigor even though the season was not a profitable one, ending the season with a 8-9 slate. Highlighting the season, however, North batted their way to a 7-1 victory over Thomas Johnson. Seniors Steve Klick and Lee Ridenour provided a good backbone for the team. Randy Shoemaker and Mike Rohrer led the juniors with decisive hits and Dick Showe provided super pitching. Although a strong defense was established against South, the Hubs lost both games by a large difference.

Devoted aides give free time to help athletes

There were many facets to the success of athletics at North High and of these were the managers. Devoting their free time, these students performed helpful tasks for athletes. Beginning as freshman, some of these aides worked their way up to varsity, serving the teams by washing their uniforms, taping, recording statistics, and lending their support.

Football managers include G. Mobley, S. Helsing, M. Smith, S. Antill.

C. Fox and S. Byron aided the soccer team.

North's jv fieldmen finish undefeated season

Despite a rainy season, North's j.v. fieldmen had a victorious season ending with a 4-0 slate. With big wins over Thomas Johnson and South High, North proved their worth. They decisively out-threw and outran all their opponents. Tim Shank successfully heaved the shot put with Corky Smith conquering the high jump. Other events included hurdles, discus, pole vaulting, distance and short running, and sprinting. Top men on the squad included Clarence Bowman and Ronnie Wollaston.

Dedicated gridders grind in summer practice

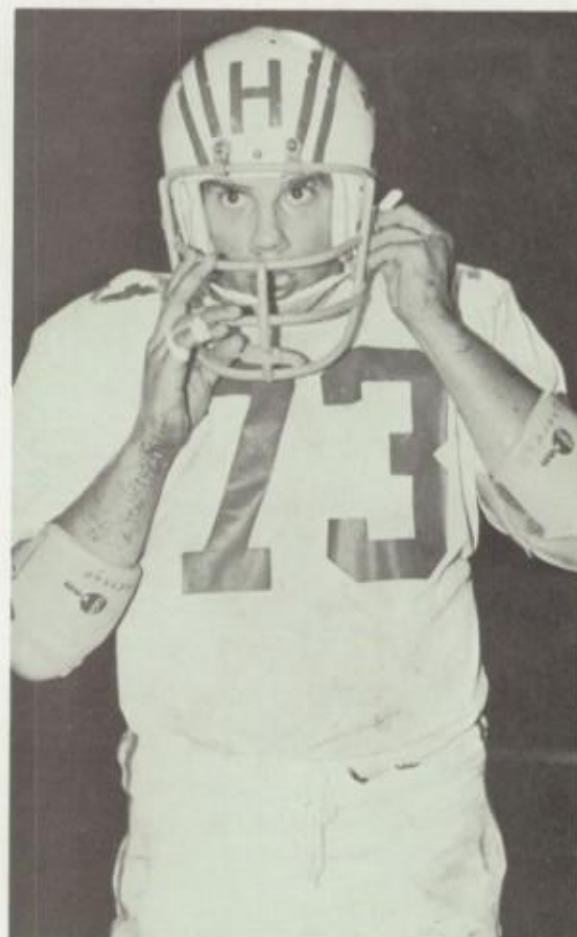

August 15 was the start of long and devoted varsity summer football practice. Realizing that the Hubs had a definite lack of size and speed. Head Coach Galbraith and his assistants hoped to put together a unit of young men dedicated to winning. The gridders practiced two to three hours both in the morning and at night, and in between they carefully studied their playbooks and met for skull sessions. All this preparation, combined with scrimmages against area teams, was finally put to the test against Bishop Walsh in Cumberland.

South hands North double defeats in rival games

In the first North-South game, with crowd enthusiasm at a peak, the Hubs played one of the best basketball games of the year. Holding the lead through the first three quarters against the fierce troops of Stormin' Norman, powerhouse in the Tri-State league, the Hubs finally bowed out in the fourth quarter 94-80. Danny Reese had a phenomenal performance for the Hubs with 32 points in the contest. The second game was all South as the team could not repeat their previous performance against the Rebels.

Picking off South pass, J. Harris shoots.

E. Brooks drives in for two points.

M. Rideout fakes shot and passes off.

D. Reese jumps high for a two point increase.

Girls win County Championship; finish 12-0

K. Rideout drives in to score.

D. Wagner adds two points from the outside.

The Hubettes under the direction of Coach Diana Christian, were too much for county opponents as they finished the regular season with a perfect 12-0 mark. Season play included double victories over South High and St. Maria Goretti and a devastating win over Thomas Johnson. With wins over Catoclin and Alleghany under their belts, the girls bowed out of tournament play with a tough 47-40 defeat at the hands of Sherwood.

J.V.'s finish with outstanding 7-4-1 record

The J.V. Grapplers, under the direction of rookie Coach Fogle, ended their season with an outstanding 7-4-1 mark. Included in this record were solid victories over Frederick, Jefferson, and Handley. The highlight of the season was a come from behind victory over arch rival South, 29-26. Outstanding wrestlers for the Hubs were Mark Dwyer, Scott Dutton, Randy Weinbrenner, Robin Smith, and Don Alford.

The team explodes with enthusiasm as their teammate comes close to a pin.

Referee signals a win for B. Cox over South.

STUDENT BODY

Frosh adjust well to new surroundings

The novelty of new surroundings wore off quickly as the class of '77 got involved in the mainstream of North's activities. Class President, Kathy Altizer, started the ball rolling by organizing many money-making projects. Stationary was sold and bake sales were performed successfully, both in and outside the school. The large project for the year was a Bingo party. Advised by Mrs. Swisher, the class used the theme of "Hub Jungle" for hall decorations and performed skits for the Pep Assembly.

FRESHMAN OFFICERS: Pres. K. Altizer, V. Pres., T. Bargiel, Treas., D. Storey, Sec., S. Gilbert.

Diligent Juniors jump into school year and prom

Receiving their rings marked a special day for the class of '75 as they officially became upperclassmen. And equally as important was the responsibility of constructing their prom for the Senior class. By leaping into class projects, more than enough money was raised. Organizing these campaigns were President Jenni Horst aided by advisor, Mr. Leon Brumbach. Some of the projects included Stanley Products, bake sales, the concession stand at basketball games, and a stand at the Mummers Parade.

Career Studies

provide skills

for juniors

Juniors adjusted quickly to the new surroundings as they traveled to the Careers Studies Center this year. Realizing their desire for the training, they took advantage of what the Center offered. Courses ranging from a medical career to an electrical career influenced the students into choosing the Center. Every two weeks the juniors returned to North for the second part of their education.

P. Ridenour, K. Lynn, B. Danner, learn techniques used in medical careers.

Seniors reminisce three years, enjoy finale

Pres. D. Poole leads class in activities.

After weathering three years of toil and leisure, Seniors have watched their final year slip by, and suddenly the future is upon them, ringing new and challenging lifestyles. Memories of Frosh struggles, assemblies, sales, dances, and classes intermingle with present headaches over term papers, Calculus problems, Chemistry, and Biology projects. Prom, spirit, sports, friends laughter, and classroom escapades will rank high among prized memories as the class of '74 reaches the final and greatest step.

V. Pres. M. Harrison is content with class success.

Secretary, S. Strachan strikes precise notes.

Mr. Donald McCammon serves as able advisor.

B. Grant keeps the treasury well-filled.

Better relations brought about by Student Affairs

In advanced work, J. Donaldson, B. Grimm, sand wood.

New innovations in the Vocational Technical Studies Center made career education more relevant to the Seniors. Being the first class to have spent two years in the new Vo-Tech building, Seniors made good use of its Resource Center. A Student Affairs Committee acted as a Student Council. The class of '74 gained a voice in planning, and scholastic preparation for life.

R. Hoffman, R. Brezler wire circuits.

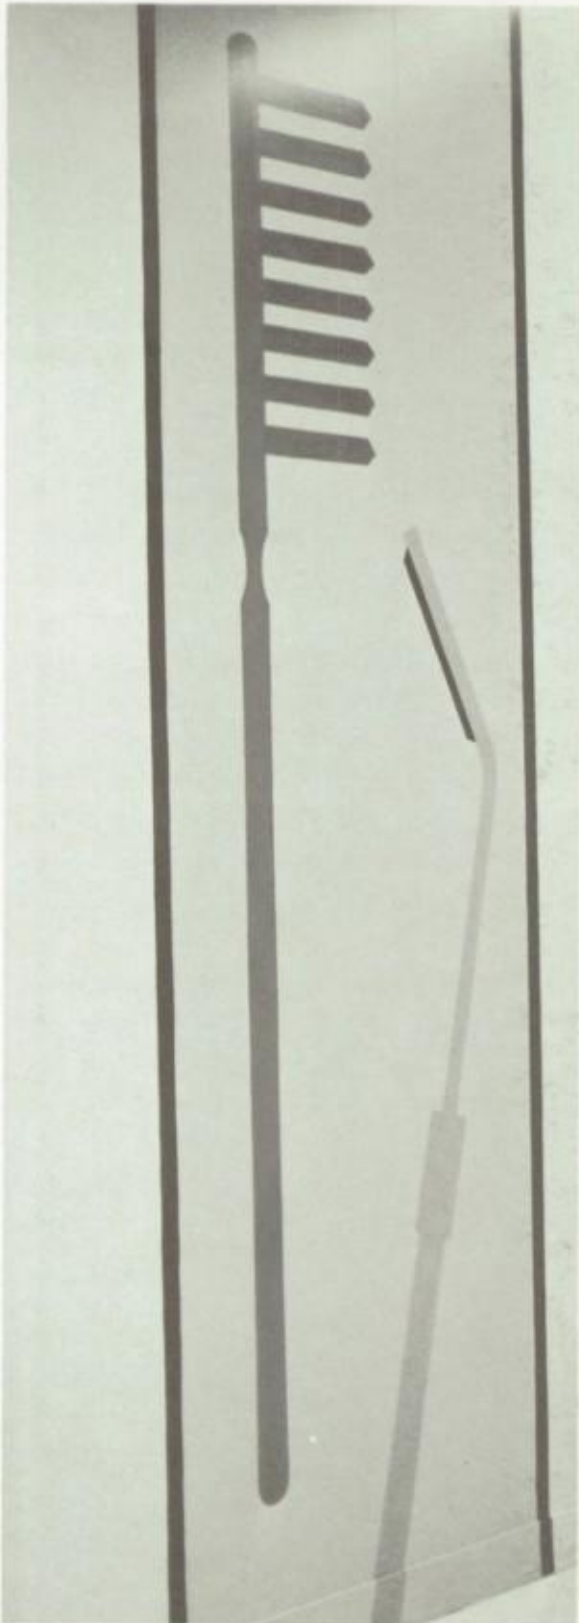

S. Hornbecker, R. Herrington work on amplifier using various techniques.

K. Kretsinger, B. Brown run through a procedure for sanitation.

Constructing his chimney is G. Renner.

G. Krugh and J. Snyder determine measurements by the use of equipment.

Completing her key punch card is D. McNair.

M. Hutson utilizes artistic talent on life forms.

Dennis Sommerfeld and Mark Spessard control the growth of flowers and vines by regulating room temperature.

Leadership is North's High's foundation

Many students may not know it, but behind all the glitter and glamour of holding the position of a principal there's much hard work. Mr. James Lemmert is the firm foundation responsible for part of North High's success. Although he doesn't plan everything concerning the school, he authorizes and supervizes all activities. Assisting him, but leading an equally important role, is Mr. John Coover. He serves as Vice-Principal and director of all athletic activities. Together these two men coped with problems which arose and extinguished them by utilizing insight, common sense, and also by respecting human nature.

Co-ordinators marshall events and individuals

Keeping track of students and seeing that not too many classes were missed were not the only duties of North's coordinators. Mrs. Gibbons, Mr. Downs, and Mr. Galbraith put in many hours supporting school policies and continuing Hub traditions. Administration operated smoothly and rolls were kept efficiently, while activities were numerous and well-organized. Although the rules outlined at the start of the year were stiff, students soon learned that they would receive fair treatment and a smile in return for their friendly courtesy and cooperation. The organizers attained a year of harmony and progress by ruling with velvet hand and iron glove.

Mr. Walter R. Galbraith

Counselors lay plans for student careers

The guidance department, providing each and every student with all the help needed to complete another year of education, proved itself to be the nucleus of the school. Faced with many problems which arose over schedule changes, the department quickly solved them. With the aid of modern equipment, students were given a greater insight into information in selecting a college for them, testing was organized, the work released program and program at HJC was repeated.

Business staff assures better work careers

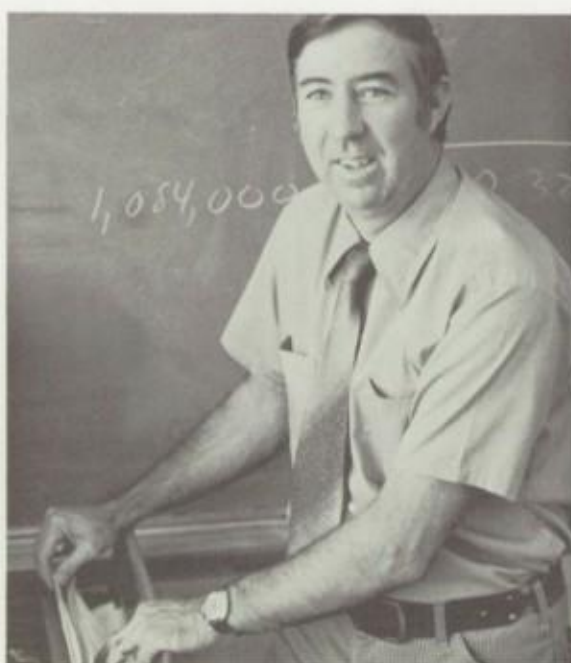

North High did its part in preparing business students for the future. Courses such as bookkeeping, shorthand, and typing gave practical knowledge for office work in coming years. Personal typing was chosen by many non-business students. They found the instructors gave them practical knowledge for college work ahead.

Instructors

develop student artistic talents

The chorus and orchestra students this year were provided with exceptional learning opportunities. Plans began early for reciprocal visits and concerts with a group in Toronto, Canada. In addition to their duties to perform for assemblies and civic groups, the chorus and orchestra had many money-making projects. As in the past the band gave superb half time shows, and many aesthetic students used their talent in visual art classes.

Languages

better develop

student ideas

In learning a foreign language; North's students found they were taught more than the basics of speaking that language. Each language exists in its own culture and North's instructors sought to blend culture with the language itself. Outside the classroom experience, this was achieved through French and Spanish Clubs. Our new addition to the foreign language staff, Mrs. Swisher, was a great asset to the department.

English builds foundation using new techniques

Functioning as the most important single subject in school, English was taught in various diversified courses while providing a base of grammar and vocabulary for all. The juniors and seniors chose semester and/or mini-semester offerings and advanced to expressive writing in composition and journalism. Writing abilities were again gained by seniors through their experiences with Word Power. Field trips and dramatizations highlighted the year. Open classroom concepts, which used composition for the foundation, were developed by the English 9 team.

Social Studies

creates much

world interest

Living means looking at our world — past and present, and looking means learning. Through such courses as Contemporary Decisions and Consumer Economics, the Social Studies Department challenged the students to look and live. An expanded program which included Physical Geography, Economical Geography and Civil War History, gave the students wider areas to scrutinize and question. American History Biography is steered toward the study of people noted in History.

Math whizzes calculate difficult problems

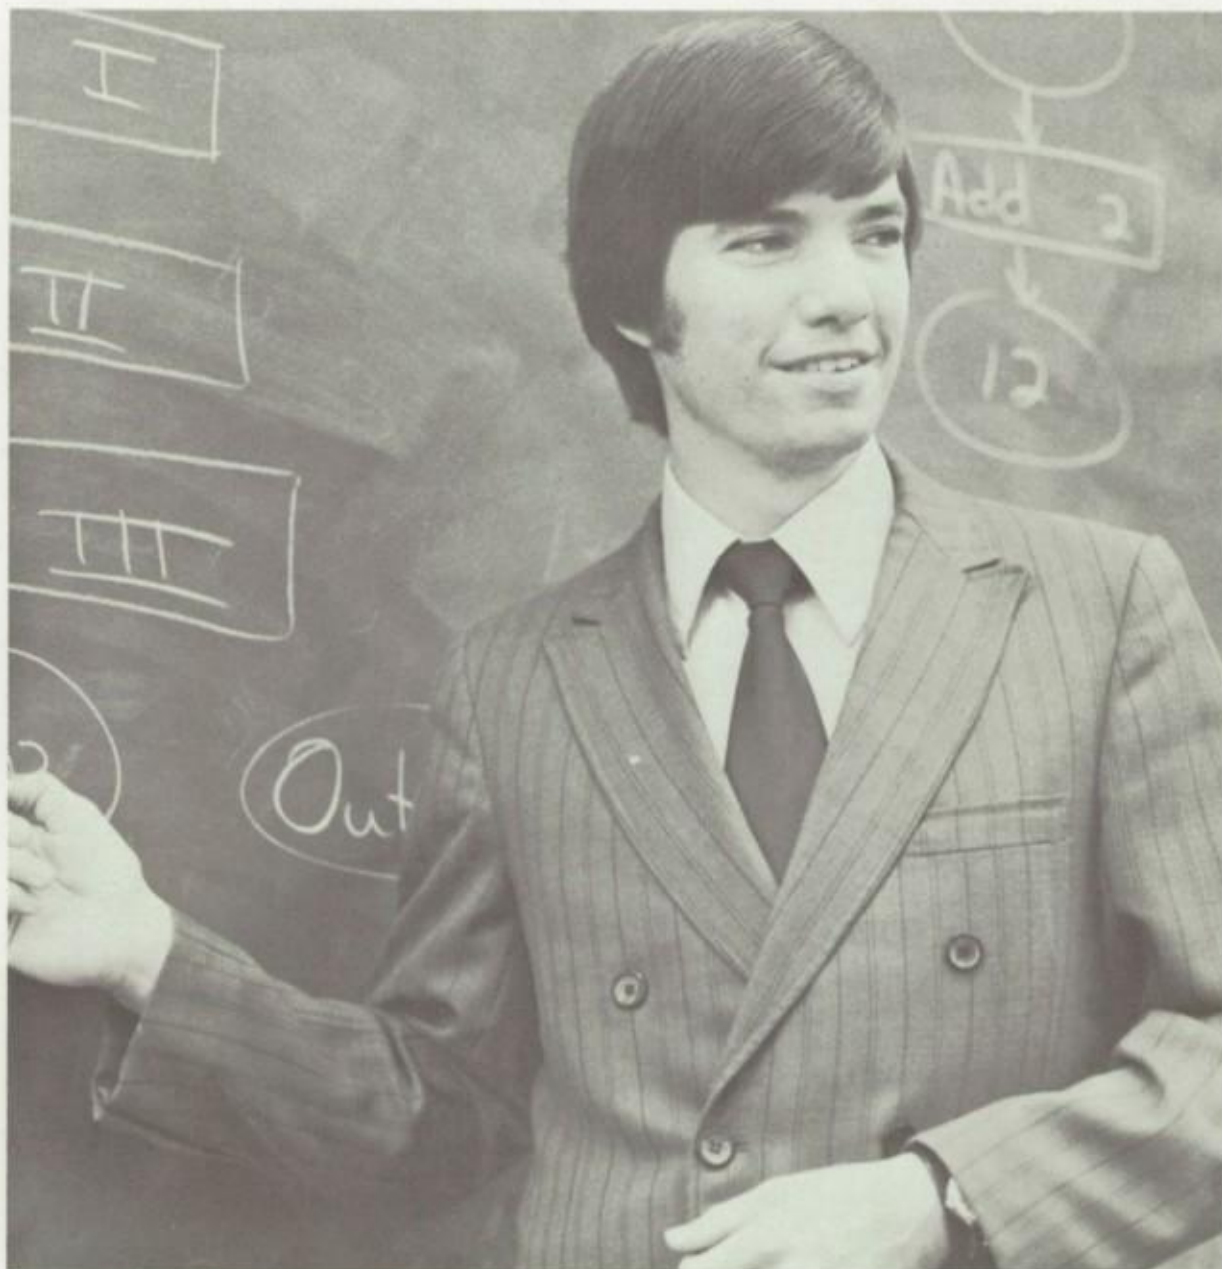

Thomas F. Faherty

arising daily

Amid an atmosphere of confusion and bewilderment, the faculty of F building strove to bring order and understanding to students. Chalk dust piled high as equations and definitions were explained, and tears fell as proofs were attempted but not conquered. Algebra and geometry were attacked by academic students, but only the braver souls ventured into the realms of pre-Calculus and Calculus. The quality of our teachers showed through at the end of the year, however, when students found that they really had learned that frustrating subject of mathematics.

The Industrial Arts and Electronics departments again offered many electives this year. Wood and metal shop, mechanical arts, electronics and Driver's education were only a part of the curriculum offered. The almost entirely male classes were taught techniques and given experiences beneficial to future careers and jobs. Even more practical knowledge was gained in the VERSE and VICT programs. Students chose courses which prepared them with mandatory training necessary to pursue careers in the vocational area and fulfill their aspirations of an interesting year and equally challenging adulthood.

Food preparation, clothing, and tailoring, child care, decorations, and handicrafts made up the Home Economics studies again. Miss Vivienne Lewis North Hagerstown High took pride in their well-rounded education it provided. The school provided students with a larger choice of activities in their gym classes. Selections included bowling, paddle tennis, archery, golf, apparatus, weightlifting, softball, volleyball, basketball, tumbling, first aid, track and field, and chess. Girls and boys participated together in Marine Fitness training and flag football was added to girl's curriculum. North's students, under the able leadership of their instructors, found class tough but rewarding.

What would this school do without them

The custodians were people seldom seen when things were running smoothly around the campus. But when hall decorators needed yardsticks, or when locker doors jammed, these employees were never far away. These things, in addition to regular services provided by the custodial service, keep North High going. Always appreciated were the many cafeteria workers, generous with their time and cooking ability.

Lunch prices are tallied up.

Mrs. Worthington is cafeteria manager.

Ice cream is provided for hungry people by cafeteria worker.

nature . . . green on green.
 overhead, moving softly, leaves that live and living grow.
 leaves that grow in spring to shade
 the grass from summer's sparkling sun.
 leaves that feed the earth and know
 the deep dark secrets down below.
 leaves that rustle in the wind,
 and carry fall's warm colors in.
 leaves that change to shades of red reflecting the fire of life within.
 leaves that travel with the breeze;
 and traveling fall
 wherever they please:
 in flowered meadows rich with life;
 in golden fields of harvest grains;
 in running streams that cleanse the earth;
 on blades of grass and dark brown earth.
 to end their growth, and ending . . . die.
 and freed once more to live.
 and once again the calm and quiet,
 nature is renewed;
 that we may hear its lesson well,
 and listening take heed;
 "everything that lives,
 lives not alone,
 nor for itself."
 we must live for each other and in that living . . . love.

thank you!

thanks to myerly's — for taking every picture in this yearbook and getting them to us on time, even though we sometimes asked for impossible tasks,
mr. larry allen — for coping with our big and small problems and advising us when others couldn't,
mr. lemmert — for giving us everything we needed or wanted, senior, junior, sophomore, freshman helpers — for working hard and doing jobs editors didn't want, patrons and representatives — for raising enough money so we could finance this yearbook,
mrs. williams — for checking copy
and helping out,
mr. beard — for checking sports,
mr. kinsley — for acting as an advisor when needed,
mr. jack weihl — for supplying us with paper, paper clips, masking tape, his filing cabinet, his help and his humor when we couldn't have done without,
janitors — for cleaning up after us, faculty — for providing their co-operation when needed and north high student body — for buying our yearbooks.
